Career Overview

Dr. Peter Scharf is a nationally recognized leader in corrections, criminal justice training, curriculum development, technology and education. He recently was appointed as Research Professor at Tulane University School of Public Health and Tropical Global Health Systems and Development Department in June 2008. He was an invited speaker to the Nobel Public Service Seminar in Stockholm Sweden. He has innovated new undergraduate course offerings related to public health perspectives related to violence and change processes related to public health. He has been interviewed by a large number of national media related to his expertise related to violent crime.

He recently was named to the Criminal Justice Transition team by New Orleans Mayor Elect Mitch Landrieu. He also was asked to serve on the evidence integration panel of the Office of Justice Programs, supporting policies and programs based upon scientific evidence. He just received (October 2011) two major grants related to correctional re-entry from the Bureau of Justice Assistance, working with the LA Department of Corrections and is serving as an advisor to the Recovery School District's at risk initiative. He also was named Board President of the Board for the New Orleans Schweitzer Fellowship and received a major award for City service.

He was the founder of the Center for Society, Law and Justice (CSLJ); he spearheaded the creation of one of the highest quality criminal justice technology training, research and implementation entities in the US. Additionally, Dr. Scharf played an integral role in attracting several multi-million dollar grants to the Center and its partner, the University of New Orleans. While at Texas State and now Tulane he managed a PREA risk management project designed to identify and manage the risk of rape in prisons. He was the DCJ 2008 Foundations of Excellence Award Winner at Texas State University. He testified three times before the House Judiciary Committee regarding murder trends and worked with Stuart Baker of the White House on an assessment of the federal Response to Hurricane Katrina.

He is the author of several books, including Readings in Moral Education (1978), Growing Up Moral (1979), Towards a Just Correctional System (1980), Badge and the Bullet (1983), A Guide to Computer-Age Parenting (1984), Understanding the Computer-Age (1988), Assessing Law Enforcement Ethics (1996), and the Justice Information Sharing Performance Measures Guide (2008), each of which has had a strong impact on educational, public health and criminal justice practice.

From 1992-95, Dr. Scharf served as Director of Training and Technical Assistance for the Police Foundation in Washington, DC. He assumed responsibility for the funding and management of a celebrated risk management technology and led training and technical assistance unit that was dedicated to improve law enforcement practices in civil disorders, diversity training, ethics, the use of force, community policing and effective management practices. He participated in two major investigations, the Chicago PD Burge Torture case and the NYC Crown Heights disorder investigation.

The Center has won national recognition for its innovative programs supporting law enforcement and correctional professionals. From 1998-2008, the Center has managed a $2.8 million dollar national BJA Cooperative Agreement (now in phase five) to assist national law enforcement in implementing computer technologies., The Center has completed several current major cooperative agreements with DOJ/ODP including a national “ Managing Law Enforcement Integrity” project, the “Art of Performance Measures”, a project promoting technology integration, a multi-million dollar project related to Forensic Digital investigations, and a PSN project which focuses upon research related to the targeting of guns in high crime neighborhoods. He has acquired over 8 million dollars in Federal Funding in the past 10 years. While at Texas State University (2006-8) Dr. Scharf won a Foundations of Excellence Award for outstanding teaching.

He was the recent winner of the TUSPHTM Outstanding Undergraduate Teaching Award (2012 and 2013) and is currently conducting research related to correctional reentry working on three funded projects with the LA DPS&C.

Dr. Scharf has been certified numerous times as an expert witness in US District Court in testimony related to the use of force. He has appeared in a number of national media entities in the past three years including NPR(6, NBC Evening News(3), PBS(3), Nightline, BBC(2) and CNN(5 and has been interviewed by the NY Times(3), WA Post(2), WSJ, Houston Chronicle(2), Canal, USA Today (2) and other news entities. He was both treasurer and secretary of the FBI Citizen’s Academy Alumni Association since 2004. He was asked to testify three before the House of Representatives (2007, 2008 and 2013)
