

LSU School of Public Health's Mission

The LSU School of Public Health's mission states that our goal is for "a healthier Louisiana with a workforce addressing the core functions of public health, equipped with data and knowledge, and supported by LSU's faculty, students and staff." Your education here will give you hands-on, practical experience to make the world a healthier place.

Gender & Diversity

One of the goals of the LSU School of Public health is to prepare students to address the changing needs of society, diverse in economic status, race/ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation and sexual identity.

With a population that reflects that of the state of Louisiana, we are training the next generation of Public Health workers in a way that reflects the community we call home.

Student -Teacher Ratio

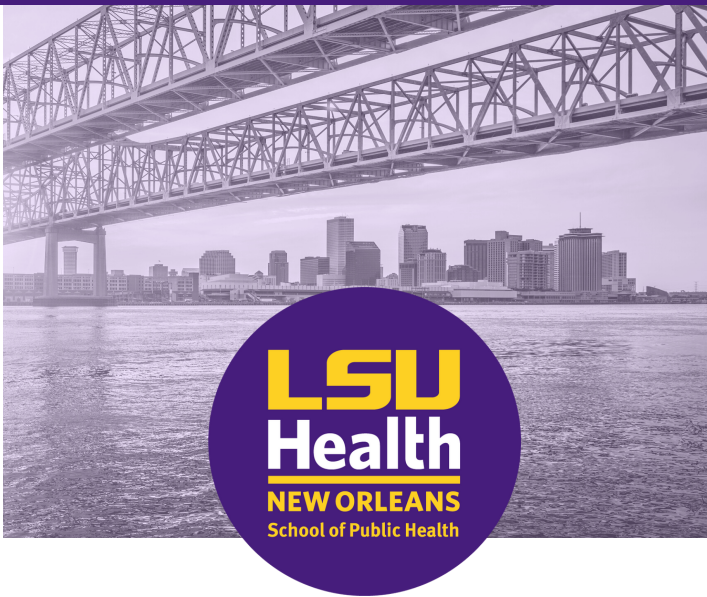

Are you looking for a place that will know your name and not treat you just like another number? That's exactly what you'll get at the LSU School of Public Health.

With three students to every faculty member, you will be learning in an environment where everyone knows your name and fosters your passions.

LSU School Of Public Health

2020 Gravier St
New Orleans, LA 70112
sph@lsuhsc.edu
504.568.5700
www.sph.lsuhschool.edu

Health Policy and Systems Management MPH

Health Policy and Systems Management

The program in Health Policy and Systems Management (HPSM) is concerned with personal and population health improvement through planning, implementation and operation of systemic, effective and community responsive programs and organizations. The HPSM program prepares students for managerial, consulting, and leadership roles in public health and health care organizations.

Program core courses also prepare students to pursue careers to develop and advocate for health policies to achieve cost-effective delivery of health services as well as to ensure desired health outcomes.

Admission Requirements

- A baccalaureate degree for MPH from an accredited college or university
- A suggested grade point average of 3.0 for undergraduate and graduate work based on a 4-point scale
- Official Graduate Record Exam (GRE) or Medical College Admission Test (MCAT) score may be submitted but is not required for MPH.
- Satisfactory standing at the most recent educational institution attended
- Please check out our website for more.

Scholarships

The School of Public Health and the HPSM program make scholarships available for incoming Master-level students as funding permits. These are competitive based on admission information and currently require fall application to be considered.

Additionally, the HPSM program, and its faculty, generate several funding opportunities that allow students to apply for paid student work. For more information about these opportunities, visit <https://sph.lsuhsu.edu/jobs>

MPH Students :

In order to qualify for a scholarship, applicants must have all application materials in by the priority scholarship deadlines for each semester. A list of these deadline dates can be found on our website in the "Tuition and Aid" section. No additional forms are needed.

How to Apply

All applications must be submitted through SOPHAS by the application deadline. For additional information about applying as an International Student, you can go to our website.

All application packets must include:

- SOPHAS application & application fee
- Statement of Purpose and Objectives
- Resume or CV
- Letters of recommendation (3)
- International Students may have additional requirements.

For More information

You can always check out our website at: sph.lsuhsu.edu or contact one of the following:

For general admissions questions:

- phone: 504-568-5700
- email: sph@lsuhsu.edu

For HPSM specific questions:

Yu-Wen Angela Chiu, DrPH, MPH
YChiu@lsuhsu.edu

